The Nearshoring Opportunity

Mexico is experiencing a nearshoring boom as companies relocate manufacturing closer to the US market. Key drivers include: tariff avoidance (US-China tensions), shorter supply chains, USMCA benefits, and Chinese factories opening operations in Mexico.

Factor	Impact
US-China Tariffs	Companies moving production to Mexico
USMCA Agreement	Preferential access to US/Canada
Supply Chain Risk	Diversification from China
Chinese Investment	Chinese companies opening Mexican plants

Why Mexico Matters for STTAURX

Factor	Opportunity
$139.7B China Trade	Massive LC demand
Nearshoring Hub	Growing manufacturing = more trade
$120B Trade Deficit	Imports need financing
USMCA Access	Gateway to $2T+ US-Mexico trade
+8.2% YoY Growth	Expanding market
Strategic Location	Latin America headquarters potential

4. Commodity Trade Flows (LC-Heavy)

High-value commodity trades typically require Letters of Credit to mitigate counterparty risk. These represent STTAURX's primary target market.

Commodity	Annual Trade	LC Usage	Key Corridors
Oil & Gas	$2+ Trillion	95%	Middle East → Global
Gold	$400-500B	90%	Switzerland → India/Asia
